

Three policemen secure themselves as they reach two civil rights pickets who had chained themselves halfway up the boom of a construction crane at the Rochdale housing development in Brooklyn, N. Y. Thursday. The pickets, Andy Young, 32, second from bottom, and Frank Anderson, 22, partly hidden by policeman, had vowed not to come down until Negroes and Puerto Ricans are accepted in New York City building and construction trades. The crane boom was lowered and the men removed from the site. (AP Wirephoto)

Rail Arbitration Effort Launched

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's choice as chairman of the arbitration panel which will rule in the railroad labor dispute is losing no time in getting to work.

Ralph T. Seward, a long-time professional arbitrator who lives here, was named only Thursday to head the seven-member panel. He told a newsman he plans on meeting with Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz today to make preparations for calling a meeting of the full group.

Under the course charted by a bill enacted last week to avert a nationwide railroad strike on Aug. 29, the arbitration panel is to work out a solution dealing with the crackling issues of 32,000 freight and yard firemen's jobs and makeup of train crews.

Kennedy appointed Seward and two university faculty members, all with broad experience in arbitration of labor disputes, to round out the board.

Seven Member Panel
Congress provided for appointment of two panel members each by management and the unions and for selection by the President of the three remaining members if the labor-management members could not come to agreement on them. It took the two union members and two management members only two days to announce they had agreed to disagree.

To serve with Seward as public members, Kennedy named James J. Healy, a professor of industrial relations at Harvard's Graduate School of Business, and Benjamin Aaron, director of the Institute of Industrial Relations at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Union Representative
Railroad representatives on the arbitration panel are J. E. Wolfe, chairman of the National Railway Labor Conference, and Guy W. Knight, a Pennsylvania Railroad vice president.

The unions are represented by H. E. Gilbert, president of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, and R. H. McDonald, vice president of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Under a timetable set up by the legislation, the board must begin hearings within 30 days and issue its decision within 90 days. The binding arbitration award will be effective 60 days after it is filed and will remain in effect for two years.

China Charges Soviet Theft Of Border Dwellers

TOKYO (AP)—Red China accused the Russians today of trying to subvert a district government of its uranium-rich Sinkiang Province and of stirring up trouble along their common border in 1960. It said thousands of Chinese were lured or forced into the Soviet Union and are still there.

Furthermore, the blast over Peking Radio charged that Premier Khrushchev in 1958 "put forward unreasonable demands designed to bring China under Soviet military control." These demands were not explained.

But Peking was more specific about what it says has been going on in Sinkiang, the remote province in northwest China where Moscow in 1950 won the right to exploit various minerals including uranium, used in the manufacture of nuclear weapons.

A Chinese language version said the Russians admitted tens of thousands of Chinese into Soviet territory last year in an attempt to overthrow the Chinese administration of Ili, a district in Sinkiang.

Fifth Column?

Presumably they would be used as a fifth column in Ili, once controlled by czarist Russia.

An English language broadcast, however, spoke of Soviet subversive activity in Ili and called it an example of "how the leaders of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union have sabotaged Chinese-Soviet unity."

"In April and May, 1962," Peking said in the English broadcast, "the CPSU used their organs and personnel in Sinkiang, China, to carry out large-scale subversive activities in the Ili region and enticed and coerced several tens of thousands of Chinese citizens into going to the Soviet Union."

Repatriation Refused

It said Peking lodged repeated protests but that Russia had refused to repatriate them on the "pretext of the 'sense of Soviet legality' and 'humanitarianism.'"

It added that "to this day, this incident remains unsettled."

The border between the Soviet Union and China in Sinkiang is ill-defined and there have been repeated conflicts there.

The latest charges were in a 39,000-word attack on Khrushchev and the Soviet party published in the official Peking People's Daily, and the theoretical organ, Red Flag. The article seemed to bear the stamp of Mao Tze-tung himself.

First portions of the article broadcast by Peking Thursday said Soviet-Chinese relations have reached "the brink of a split" and the differences in the international Communist movement have reached "a new stage of unprecedented gravity."

Highways Safer For Labor Day, Declares Mackie
LANSING (AP)—Highway Commissioner John Mackie says that contrary to popular opinion, Michigan highways were safer during the Labor Day weekend than they were during comparable periods during the first eight months of the year.

Mackie explained that the death rate of 2.5 per hundred million miles driven during the five-day Labor Day weekend was 50 per cent lower than the average of 4.7 per hundred million vehicle miles during all of 1962.

Marinette Granny Stretches Flight

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—Mrs. Marie Johnson intended to fly from New Mexico to Green Bay Wednesday and wound up spending the night in New York City.

The 83-year-old Marinette, Wis., grandmother left Albuquerque, after spending a month with a daughter, and after a change of planes in Chicago she was to have been met here by her grandson, Randall Johnson of Green Bay.

When she failed to arrive on Wednesday night's flight, airlines made inquiries and finally located her at Idlewild Airport in New York.

The mixup, it developed, occurred in Chicago, she said Thursday.

"When the plane landed I just knew it wasn't possible to be in Chicago already so I stayed on. After we got off the ground again and found we were headed for New York, there was nothing I could do. I couldn't jump, you know."

After arriving in New York, she said, airline officials made arrangements for her to stay in a "very nice hotel" near the airport for the night and flew her back to Chicago Thursday. She then transferred and arrived here.

"It was the first time I saw New York since I arrived from Sweden 53 years ago," Mrs. Johnson said. Asked if she enjoyed the side trip, she said, "It was all right and didn't cost me anything."

Plane Missing

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — A C46 Air America transport is missing on a relief supply mission in southern Laos, a spokesman for the U.S. civilian airline said today.

Three Americans and three Laotians were aboard when the plane disappeared Thursday evening. A spokesman said a search has been unsuccessful. The names of those aboard were withheld.

Romney To Ask Income Levy On Firms, Persons

LANSING (AP) — State taxes on personal and corporate income are certain to be a part of Gov. George Romney's tax reform program, but the exact size of either was still a closely-guarded secret today.

The governor's office refused to confirm or deny published reports that the personal income tax will be about two per cent and the corporate tax around three per cent.

But these are the figures most frequently mentioned in capitol speculation about the program Romney will propose to a special legislative session next Thursday.

He will not reveal any of the details of his plan before then, Romney has said.

Educated guesswork by newsmen who have followed the progress of Romney's tax conferences around the state also include tax relief for property or school taxes possibly in the form of between 10 and 20 per cent credit against the flat rate income levy.

No Specifics

The governor already has said the program will emphasize local option, non-property taxes. Opponents believe this probably means income taxes to be levied by local units of government, atop the state taxes.

Such taxes, most likely to be assessed at the county level to avoid clashes between cities, could have a ceiling of anywhere from one-half of a per cent to two per cent.

The governor reiterated at a news conference today that he will have no comment on the specifics of his tax program before it is presented to the lawmakers.

But he observed: "It will be unfortunate if the idea is built up that the primary issue involved is an income tax. The primary issue is not any particular tax."

Ask Exemption

Meanwhile, the Michigan AFL-CIO said it will launch an initiative, petition drive to exempt $1,250 from any income tax adopted by the state or local government units.

The union said the petitions will ask the 1964 session of the legislature to enact such an exemption. If it fails to do so, an effort would be made to put the proposal on the November, 1964 ballot.

AFL-CIO President August Scholle said the aim of the drive was to prevent the state from imposing an unfair income tax on top of what he said was an unfair sales tax and unfair nuisance taxes.

Teacher Strike Voted In N. Y.

NEW YORK (AP)—The governing body of the AFL-CIO United Federation of Teachers has voted to strike the New York City public school system on opening day Monday in defiance of a State Supreme Court order.

"If necessary, we'll conduct the strike from jail," said Charles Cogen, president of the union.

Max J. Rubin, president of the Board of Education, said the schools will open for the more than a million pupils Monday—no matter what the union does.

The union's Delegate Assembly voted at a tumultuous meeting Thursday night to strike. The assembly rejected the board's final contract offer by an announced vote of 1,500 to 17.

School officials say the dispute over pay is the major reason for the impasse in negotiations. The federation says the pay dispute is only one of the reasons and that the union's demands on improved working conditions and educational conditions are important.

The union, which claims 21,000 members among the city's 43,000 public school teachers, is the recognized collective bargaining agent for all.

TODAY'S CHUCKLE

It would be wonderful if high prices would come down once in a while to get on speaking terms with the country in which they were raised.

This scene of school children being turned away by Alabama State Troopers at Birmingham Thursday was repeated today at Huntsville, Ala., where the board of education ordered the schools opened on an integrated basis to admit Negro children as decreed by the federal court and state troopers under orders from Governor Wallace barred them from entry. U. S. Defeated In Effort To Oust Viet Nam's Nhu

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States intends to press firmly for policy reforms by the government of South Viet Nam even though it has evidently failed in its drive to oust strongman Ngo Dinh Nhu.

Nhu and his brother, President Ngo Dinh Diem, in separate interviews in Saigon Thursday displayed public confidence in the security of their positions.

The past two weeks Nhu had been the target of considerable criticism from Washington, the chief immediate complaint being that he was responsible for attacks on Buddhist temples and widespread arrests of Buddhist monks and nuns and demonstrating students who supported the Buddhist opposition to the Diem government.

In an exclusive interview with The Associated Press in Saigon Thursday, President Diem said his government considers the Buddhist crisis to be a closed incident now and he predicted better relations between Viet Nam and the United States.

Nhu Won't Retire

In a separate meeting with a number of foreign correspondents in the Vietnamese capital, Nhu, who is head of the Vietnamese secret police, said he did not intend to retire.

Only three days earlier President Kennedy had said in a public statement that the government of South Viet Nam had "gotten out of touch with the people" and lacked the popular support necessary for it to win its war against Communist guerrillas. For years, the guerrillas have terrorized the countryside in a struggle to take over South Viet Nam.

U.S. officials had no immediate comment on the Diem or Nhu statements, which were being studied here with great care. But authorities said privately that Kennedy's statement in a television interview defined U.S. policy and that policy continues.

Early last week there was considerable confidence here that pressures then operating against the Diem government would result in radical changes in Saigon. There were persistent rumors of a possible coup by Vietnamese military leaders.

Want Nhu Ousted

U.S. officials generally made no secret of their desire to see Nhu removed from the government.

There apparently was some hope here that Diem would find some other position for his brother.

Huntsville, Ala. Troopers Braved By Parents, Kids

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — A group of determined mothers defied the powers of Gov. George C. Wallace and his state troopers today and marched their children into a school that the chief executive had ordered closed for the day.

About 25 women turned a deaf ear to an advisory by a trooper that East Clinton Grammar School was closed. They walked up the steps and marched their broods into the building through lines of troopers who yielded.

"Don't hurt them, don't hurt them! Let them go in," came a booming message over the state highway patrol loudspeaker system at the scene.

They went in. They were not hurt.

A call for reinforcements went out and in a few minutes a double line of troopers again barred entry to the school. Two of the men stood against the door.

Negro Turned Back

At Fifth Avenue School, another of the four ordered desegregated by federal courts, the first Negro lad trying to enter a Huntsville public elementary school was turned back by troopers. He was S. W. Hereford IV. His father was one of the plaintiffs in the federal court case.

The temporary breach of the Wallace line at East Clinton was not repeated at the other schools.

An aide to Wallace telephoned Joe Payne, attorney for the Huntsville Board of Education, and said the closure would be for one day only. The governor's office said Wallace is a strong supporter of education and that his action was caused by unusual circumstances which he said existed in Alabama.

At the other schools, the troopers ran into resentment on the part of parents. One woman wanted to know, "What would you do if we broke through?" Troopers ignored the question.

Governor Defiant

Wallace contends he can close public schools by an executive order such as that he issued early today affecting Huntsville under broad police powers written into state law. The statutes, however, do not clearly outline his authority in such matters.

The blue-shirted troopers stationed themselves in front of the schools early in the day. They advised children, and parents, that their walks from home had been useless.

"There's no school today, honey," a trooper told an 11-year-old girl.

"Why?" she asked.

"There's just no school today," was the only answer she received.

Wallace made his move in the early morning hours, much as he had done elsewhere earlier, through issuance of an executive order.

Senate Rejection Of Goldwater's Cuba Plan Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., predicted today that the Senate will reject Sen. Barry Goldwater's proposed "Cuban reservation" to the limited nuclear test ban treaty.

The Arizona's demand that the effectiveness of the pact be postponed until the Soviet Union removes all its military forces from Cuba is an attempt to kill the treaty, Aiken said.

A supporter of the ban on all but underground tests, Aiken said an overwhelming majority will vote for ratification and less than one-third of the Senate's 33 Republican senators will support Goldwater, a potential Republican presidential nominee.

In announcing to the Senate on Thursday he intends to propose such a reservation, Goldwater may have tossed the treaty into the Republican presidential campaign.

The greatest concern of the American people, Goldwater said, is the existence of "a Soviet military base 90 miles from our shore, a base illegally occupied and brutally held."

Step To Peace

"This proposed test ban treaty cannot be a first step toward peace if it must stumble over Soviet missiles and troops in Cuba," he said.

There were immediate critical responses from Senate Democrats: leader Mike Mansfield of Montana; his chief deputy, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, and Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman, who helped negotiate the treaty.

Goldwater's reservation, Mansfield declared, would be "a mischievous toying with the health and hopes" of the American people for "the first steps toward a safer and more mature world through curbs on nuclear testing."

And, Harriman told the Economic Club of Detroit that Goldwater is "trying to make a political issue of the pact." Goldwater's proposal "doesn't make any sense," Harriman said.

Aiken, in an interview, said he is "not in favor of any reservation."

Late For Reservations

"It's rather late in the day for the U.S. to call for side issues," he declared.

Formal Senate debate begins on Monday, when the treaty is called up for ratification.

Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., announced he will "vote reluctantly to ratify the treaty, unless facts which appear subsequently will supply that weight of evidence which places this clearly in the character of being contrary to our national safety."

In an address prepared for Senate delivery, Allott said while he felt, at least to a degree, that the United States has "been black-jacked into ratification of this treaty, a failure to ratify it could destroy our already fast-diminishing claim to the moral leadership of the world."

Grant

WASHINGTON (AP)—The University of Michigan and Michigan State University will share a $238,016 three-year federal grant with nine other Midwestern schools in a new program to train personnel in biometeorology.

The Public Health Service announced the grant today.

Car Rams Stalled Auto; Two Persons Seriously Injured

Two Wilson residents were seriously injured when the car they were riding in struck the rear of a stalled auto on the Hannaville Road, four-tenths of a mile east of County Road 551 in Menominee County, at 2:30 a. m. today.

Injured were Mrs. Sally Halfaday, 18, of Rte. 1, Wilson, who suffered a fractured jaw and chin lacerations, and Archie Megenough Jr., 25, who suffered severe lacerations on the right side of the face above and below the eye. Megenough will have further x-ray examination today. Both are listed in serious condition at St. Francis Hospital today.

The injured were both passengers in a car driven by Mrs. Halfaday's husband.

According to State Police, a car driven by a Wilson juvenile girl, had run out of gas and came to rest in the middle of the road. The girl and her mother, Mrs. Lloyd Meshigaud, a passenger in the car, decided to stay with the car and laid down to sleep.

Officers said that later the car driven by Floyd Halfaday with five other occupants came along and plowed into the rear of the stalled vehicle. Halfaday sustained minor injuries and was also treated at St. Francis Hospital and released.

Louis Halfaday was ticketed for no operator's license and violation of the basic speed law, the juvenile for no operator's license and improper parking, and Mrs. Meshigaud for allowing an unlicensed minor to operate a motor vehicle.

India's Cultural Riches Explored By Escanaba Girl

By PEGGY MUNSON

Wouldn't it be wonderful to travel to the far corners of the world and discover the fascinating customs of different people? Each of us at some time or other has wanted to travel the world, adventure to faraway places and try to help everyone we meet.

But to grasp the uniqueness of any foreign country takes more than a two week visit or a month's tour. To identify yourself with a different locale, a thorough knowledge of the language, geography, religion, history and politics of the country is required. Perhaps the best way to do this would be to live and work with the people — and that is exactly what an Escanaba girl has done.

Maxine Berntsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Berntsen, 1421 N. 16th St., returned to Escanaba recently from two years in Hyderabad, Andhra Pradesh, India. Miss Berntsen taught college English at Vivek Vardini College and lived with a Hindu family.

Dr. S. D. Satwalekar and his wife, Shantabai, who is also a doctor, accepted Maxine as a member of the family and helped her overcome the language barrier. The warm and friendly people of the city invited her to weddings, various religious ceremonies and made her feel quite at home with their hospitality.

English Used

Dr. Satwalekar, who is 73 years old, founded the college and is its principal. There are about 1,000 pupils in the day college and 900 at night school.

All college subjects in India are taught in English, she said. Students enter with perhaps a two or three year background and are expected to read, write and talk in English. Until the 12th grade they have used their regional language, which could be one of several in the country. The Indians feel English is the window to the world and require its use in all college work. Miss Berntsen feels lectures are lost for several months until the students become tuned to the language. In addition, her students are taught British English and had to get used to her American dialect along with her different methods of teaching.

India's system of schooling is modeled after the British, with every college affiliated with the central university, Osmania. No college can issue degrees as in America but they must follow the prescribed curriculum of the university and give final exams written by the university. At the end of the first year the first final exam is given and the next one after two years.

The old cliché "When in Rome, do as the Romans do" holds true for any country. The way to be accepted more readily is to cooperate and become as one of the countrymen. Miss Berntsen adopted the native dress, a sari. These lovely gowns are six yards of material, any kind, ranging from cotton to nylon to the more elaborate silk. They are draped over the shoulder and around the waist and worn over a bolero-like top. It only takes about five minutes to wrap one of the saris and Maxine assures us it's not as difficult to do as it looks and they are very comfortable to wear.

Ritual Of The Bath

Because of the quality of the meat in India, Maxine became a vegetarian as was the family she stayed with. The day's diet included, lentils, soup, rice, chapatti (a wheat pancake that serves as bread), yogurt and tea.

Some interesting customs of the people were observed by Miss Berntsen, for example: no one enters an Indian home with shoes that are worn outdoors. They must either go without or wear "inside" shoes. The floors are washed after every meal and no orthodox woman would begin meals in the morning without first taking a bath. Some of the younger less disciplined women will start the meal and take their bath while it's cooking. A daily bath for both men and women in India is as much a routine as eating.

Each morning the women go outdoors and make a rangoli in front of their house . . . so what's a rangoli?, you might ask. It's another interesting Indian custom, a beautiful decoration made by sprinkling powdered chalk on the ground in an intricate design. The custom is considered to bring good luck.

The Escanaba traveler noted that Hinduism is an individual rather than congregational religion. The priest or worshipper will offer flowers, rice, nuts or some other material offering in sacrifice to the Deity.

New Outlook

Although the old system of marriage is still prevalent in India, it wasn't until recently that a boy married a girl because he fell in love with her. Most of the marriages are pre-arranged by the parents. The girl's parents decide their daughter is ready for marriage and pick out a young man they feel is suitable and then speak to his parents. They are very cautious about family background and after investigation if he comes from the right family line the boy and girl then meet. When they meet they decide if they will marry and if so, they then begin to date. When they marry they live with the bridegroom's parents.

Indian children in general are well-behaved and respectful to their parents. Indian parents are not strong disciplinarians but as a matter of custom any elder person is given respect. A problem along this line has come up during recent years, possibly due to Western influence in schools. The children are becoming more independent and this confuses the parents, who are not used to using discipline. Miss Berntsen has witnessed a 30-year-old man bend to the floor when he approached his father and has even seen a 70-year-old man grovel before a man older than he.

A final and surprising note in Miss Berntsen's travels was her discovery that none of her students had heard of the famous Indian rope trick, much less seen one, and most of them had never seen a snake charmer. During her two year stay in India she saw only one cobra. Somewhere along the line someone must have gotten fairy tales mixed up with reality, she commented.

Maxine, who has a M. A. in English, left this week for the University of Pennsylvania where she will study linguistics. Marathi, the mother tongue of the family she stayed with in India, and Telugu, the regional language of the state. After finishing her work she hopes to return to India for research.

South Vietnamese Defect; 37 Return

SAIGON (AP) — Two government soldiers of Cambodian origin forced 64 South Vietnamese civil guardsmen to defect from their Mekong River delta base last Wednesday, the government reported today.

However, 37 of the defectors escaped and have since returned to their base about 70 miles south of here, the government said. Efforts are being made to locate the others.

The government said the 37 took advantage of a sudden ambush by Communist guerrillas to escape.

India Recalls Steel Mill Bid

NEW DELHI (AP) — President Kennedy has accepted Prime Minister Nehru's offer to withdraw a request for financial help to build the Bokaro steel plant but has promised continued U.S. aid for other economic development projects, reliable sources said today.

India had sought $512 million in loans for the steel plant. The sources said Nehru wrote to Kennedy last week offering to withdraw the request after Congress blocked action on the loan for at least a year.

Kennedy's reply was delivered to Nehru Thursday night by Ambassador Chester Bowles, the sources said.

Delta's October Draft Call Is 3

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's draft call for October will number 800 men, Col. Arthur Holmes, state selective service director, announced Thursday.

The inductees will be at least 22 years old.

Another 2,500 men will be ordered to undergo pre-induction physical examinations.

Back To School

The students returned to Escanaba Area District public schools this week and next week on Monday their parents go to school to vote on a proposal to create a sinking (construction) and site fund by levying a special tax of 2 mills ($2 per $1,000 valuation) for 5 years.

The ballot is a very complicated one. It offers 5 propositions. If the voters vote Yes on all of them it will do three things:

1. Levy a small tax (a quarter mill—25 cents on $1,000 of valuation—for two years) to pay off the Ford River School District bonded debt.

2. Levy a small tax (17/100 mill or 17c per $1,000 until 1982, or refinancing after 1966) to pay off the Cornell Township School District debt.

(These two debts were incurred before the townships joined the Escanaba Area School District and if they're assumed by the big new district it will put all taxpayers in the new district on an even footing of contribution. Otherwise these two units of the district must pay their old debts plus any new debts incurred by the new district. They're already paying for the new Escanaba Area High School in addition to their old debts. They were promised that if they joined the new district their old debts would be paid by it. A Yes vote Monday keeps this promise.)

3. Create a school building and site sinking fund to rehabilitate the district's elementary school plant.

The 2 mill tax proposed will bring in $100,000 a year on the district's $50 million valuation. There has been some talk that the board of education will not take the saving in interest which this pay-as-you-go financing plan permits, but will instead build a new Franklin school immediately by borrowing money.

This is not so. The board of education does plan to borrow, but only to save the taxpayers money and to improve the efficiency of the school program. The new Franklin School will cost $200,000. It will take two years of sinking fund taxation to collect that much money.

Meanwhile the children who would normally go to the Franklin School (the old one is closed because it's unsafe) are being bussed to the Jefferson, Webster and Junior High schools. That costs about $4,000 a year and it is a poor arrangement that causes complaints about early-to-school and late getting home.

If the school district, after collecting the first year's levy of $100,000 borrows the second $100,000 for one year (until the tax collection pays it off) an interest charge of only $4,000 will be incurred. The bus saving alone will substantially pay for that and the school service will be greatly improved.

All the other projects in the 5 year sinking fund plan would be financed as the money came in from the tax, not before. Only the urgency in the Franklin School case recommends expeditious treatment and even so it will entail no substantial extra cost to the taxpayers.

If there were no sinking fund plan and the $500,000 that will be produced by the proposed tax in 5 years were obtained by bonding, an extra $350,000 in interest charges would be incurred. This can be saved by voting in the sinking fund with its pay-as-you-go plan.

The sinking fund levy won't apply until next year's tax roll. By then any one-year levy to construct a new Delta County Jail will have been paid, so taxpayers won't be asked to pay for both a new school and a new jail at the same time.

Influencing Government

If the Upper Peninsula wants to win friends and influence people it can do better than read Dale Carnegie. It might, for instance, watch the maneuvers of Rep. John F. Toepp (R-Cadillac) who recently made a tour of the Upper Peninsula to inform himself upon its economy and legislative needs.

Toepp represents Wexford and Manistee counties in the Michigan Legislature. They are resort areas and the Legislature can help them considerably with helpful legislation if it wills.

To help along the process Toepp conceived the idea of inviting the Legislature to be guests of his district on a winter outing. It is a noted snow resort country, with famed Caberfae as a featured offering. There are too many legislators to be entertained, with their wives and local hosts, at one party, so Toepp will divide the state lawmakers into two bodies by lot, inviting one for Jan. 10, 1964 and the other for the following year.

There'll be no partisan line between Republicans and Democrats for the party; they'll all be one big happy family, leaving Lansing on Friday afternoon and returning on Sunday.

The venture will cost the district $5,000 or $6,000 but the area is the biggest ski resort east of Sun Valley, with 34 runs and 90,000 skiers last winter and it has learned to venture boldly in order to promote its business. People of the district will buy dinner tickets to help host the legislators and their wives, who will go back to Lansing knowing much more about the Caberfae country, its opportunities and its problems.

Edson In Washington Memory Lane

By J. R. LOWELL

Ten Years Ago

WASHINGTON (NEA) — No-body can accuse President John F. Kennedy of not having a sense of humor. He can even see a joke on himself, which is the supreme test.

The President has been satirized, imitated, lampooned, caricatured, had words put into his mouth, and has even been the target for some pretty dirty cracks from people who are admittedly his enemies.

This bitterness has not reached the depths of viciousness to which the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt was subjected, or the even worse insults to President Lincoln. With commendable good nature, President Kennedy has taken the jibes and gags that have been manufactured at his expense.

Impressed by the quality of this material, Gene Wortsman, a Scripps-Howard reporter in Washington, has assembled a "New Frontier Joke Book," which has just been published as a 50-cent pocket book. It may be seized upon as a Republican campaign document and used against him in 1964.

But like the Ford jokes of an earlier generation, it can also be used by the Democrats to show that their man is a human being. Here are some of the better ones, reproduced with permission:

"I just finished reading PT-109." "What do you think of it?" "I think it's all right having him for President, but for God's sake don't go boating with him."

They've changed the name of "The New Frontier" to "One Man's Family."

JFK isn't the first man who thought he had all the answers . . . until he had to come up with them.

"President Kennedy is not bad for business. I'm a Wall Street broker and I should know. Kennedy is not bad for business. He loves business. Yes he does . . . etc., etc."

"What's wrong with that guy?" asked the man nearby.

"I don't know," the male nurse answered, "He's been that way ever since they brought him in here."

These days, everybody in Washington wants to know if the President is off his rocker.

We should let JFK and Rocky run it off in 1964. The loser could pay off the national debt.

Kennedy likes the Supreme Court decision about prayers in the schools. He doesn't like anyone going over his head.

"You're certainly looking great, Mr. President," the man said. "Why I remember the last time I saw you, PT-109 had been sunk, you were out there in the ocean swimming around and the enemy was everywhere about."

JFK sighed sadly and said: "They still are."

A O. K. — Always Outpromise Kennedy.

Two birds were sitting on a telephone wire. "Are you for JFK?" one asked. "Why not?" the other said. "He's for us."

As a youth, JFK was like any other normal, carefree, red-blooded American boy who had a million dollars.

It's all right to become President at 43 if you accept the fact that you'll never get promoted.

Q—My doctor says I have gallstones. Can they be dissolved or will I have to have them removed?

A—If your gallstones have caused attacks of colic or other symptoms, they should be removed surgically. There is no way to dissolve or otherwise remove them without operation.

Many persons, however, have stones that never block their bile passages. If you are one of these you can live in peaceful coexistence with your stones.

Q—My husband is 54. He has been taking hydrocortisone for two years because his adrenals do not put out enough hormone. Could this cause him to develop osteoporosis?

A—Your husband is caught on the horns of a dilemma. If he has a true deficiency of adrenal hormone, he must compensate for it by taking one of the cortisone like drugs, but all of these have an unquestioned tendency to produce decalcification of the bones (osteoporosis), especially in persons who are over 50.

More often than not, however, this comes about as a result of taking too large a dose of the hormone over a prolonged period. The fine adjustment of the drug to meet your husband's individual needs must be carefully worked out by his doctor and rechecked at frequent intervals.

Q—My doctor tells me that I have hypoglycemia. How serious is this? What is the treatment for it?

A—Your condition is caused by a low level of blood sugar. This results when the pancreas puts out too much insulin. This is usually not as serious as the high blood sugar that accompanies diabetes, unless it is caused by a tumor of the pancreas. If you have such a tumor, its prompt removal will cure your hypoglycemia.

Much more commonly no tumor or other cause for the low blood sugar can be found, in which case a diet high in fats and proteins but low in sugar and starch is the best treatment. You can get this at your nearest grocery store.

Q—My doctor took an X-ray of my heels and said I have bone spurs. What can I do to ease the pain? I have tried special shoes and heat treatment, but have gotten no relief.

A—You have a condition that commonly occurs with age and rheumatic changes in the joints. When these spurs are in a location where they are not subjected to daily pressure they do no harm, but when, as in your case, they are a constant source of pain the only treatment that will give relief is surgical removal.

Q—My husband and I are in our late 60s. We take vitamin pills every day. My daughter says we should stop them because they do more harm than good. What do you think?

A—One vitamin tablet a day will not hurt you, but for most people they are a needless expense. You need only a small amount of any of the vitamins daily and you get these in a well-balanced diet.

Large amounts of vitamin can be harmful. I would not advise anyone to take them unless his doctor found definite signs of a vitamin deficiency.

Difficulties In Getting Message To Public Deepen

LOS ANGELES — The mass media carry a large amount of political news during any major campaign, but only a small proportion of the public passes on such information in private conversation.

And even this small proportion apparently is unrelated to the number of friends of relatives living nearby, University of Michigan researcher James W. Swinehart told the American Sociological Assn.

His paper details some of the difficulties facing analysts who seek to determine the effects of mass communication on the public. Swinehart, a member of the University's Survey Research Center, predicts for example, that "As selective migration alters the nature of our growing cities and the pattern of demographic (statistical) characteristics within the population continues to change, the problem of obtaining optimum effectiveness by directing specific kinds of messages to specific audiences will become increasingly difficult — and will probably entail a sharp decline in efficiency."

Research Findings

He adds, however, that careful study of community characteristics "may help us to describe more accurately and fully the context within which mass communications effects occur — the constellation of social and psychological factors which determine whether or not a person will read or see a message, how he will respond to it, whether he will talk with others about it, and so on."

Swinehart reports some statistical findings relating community characteristics to communications behavior:

Age: Age is generally unrelated to multiple media usage. About 50 per cent of the population uses four media up to age 60, beyond which usage drops sharply. The biggest jump in TV news consumption, however, occurs after age 50, with this group averaging twice as many news shows per week as those under 35. Magazine reading is unrelated to age.

Sex: Multiple media usage is roughly the same for both sexes. Men and women read about the same number of magazines or newspapers, watch about the same amount of evening and weekend television, with only slight differences in kinds of programs viewed and evaluation of their content.

Influences Of Cities

Income and Education: Both of these factors are closely related to amount of multiple media usage. Better-educated people tend to watch fewer TV programs per week, but prime-time viewing is unrelated to education. In general, people with more education are oriented more strongly to print than to broadcast media. Membership in voluntary associations, which often serves to reinforce or weaken particular mass communications, is directly related to both income and education.

Community size has a bearing on communications effects, according to Swinehart, who says that the larger the community, the greater will be the proportion of the population exposed to a message in any given medium.

On the other hand, he adds, the larger the community the more likely it will be that: 1. Messages transmitted via TV will be evaluated critically; 2. No single message in any medium will elicit the desired response, since conflicting messages are more likely to be present; and 3. Messages in newspapers and magazines will be more effective than messages on radio or television.

Wealthy Miser Is Lauded On Thrift

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Jumping to conclusions—and how many do you agree with?—

There is a great deal of prattle about the difference between the sexes.

Less is said about how much alike they are. One of the chief characteristics of any human being, whether he be a man or a woman, is his stubborn determination to have his own way—no matter what he must do to achieve it, or how much he hurts himself and others in doing so.

It is this human characteristic, common to us all as individuals, that causes willful mankind more woe than all the differences of sex, religion and money put together.

The invention of the cash register did more to promote honesty than all the laws against larceny.

Half the parents spoil their children because they are lazy; the other half spoil their children because they enjoy it.

There are only two types of people in the world: Those who are sensible — and those who eat doughnuts for breakfast.

Wealth is usually forgiven its foibles. If a poor man leaves a small tip, the waiter dismisses saying to describe a chronic complainer: "He'd find something to cry about with a loaf of bread under each arm."

Somehow we have a conviction that the office boy who carries a portable radio in his hand—so he can listen to the baseball game as he goes about his chores—is unlikely to wind up as president of the firm.

The thing most of us find hardest to understand about modern art is how anybody else can claim to understand it.

Ness Invites Public To Pine Haven Subdivision

The "friendship strip" between Escanaba and Gladstone gets a fine new subdivision of home sites in this weekend, with the public invited to inspect the properties by Al Ness, Escanaba mortuary vault manufacturer and youth baseball leader.

"I bought the property to create a trailer court," said Ness "but I ran into so much red tape that I gave up and decided to sell it for home sites and be done with it."

It is Ness' first venture in the development of a subdivision and he has spent many months in a program of development that has his Pine Haven Subdivision in attractive condition for inspection by the public on Saturday and Sunday, with the drives completed and all the lots identified by number.

The property fronts on the south lane of U. S. 2-41 and M 35 just north of Pioneer Trail Park. It is roughly triangular, with 1,123 feet of frontage on the highway and 18,000 feet of depth.

The property has 30 acres of Ness' total holding in the area of 54 acres, and the plat, which has been surveyed by Northern Michigan Engineers of Escanaba, has been divided into 44 lots, which are 100 feet or more wide and 150 feet deep.

The subdivision is in Wells Township, two miles from the Escanaba city limits and 2.5 miles from Gladstone.

The land is high and dry covered with an attractive cover of trees, including red and white pine, oak, jack pine, aspen, white birch and maple. Many of the trees are of large size and a minimum of cutting was done in creating the circular drive which gives access to all the lots in order to preserve the wooded character of the area. The drive has a 6 inch gravel roadway 32 feet wide on a 60 foot right-of-way.

Ness, who has owned the property for more than a year, said that the lots would be sold with deed restrictions to assure a high quality housing development and protect property values.

Development Unit Is Given $100,000

MOUNT PLEASANT (AP) — Providing "objective information to help people help themselves" is the function of the Center for Economic Expansion and Technical Assistance being dedicated here today.

It is designed to help spur the development of northern lower Michigan.

A test program utilizing Central Michigan University facilities and personnel, plus private management consulting firms in the spirit of free enterprise, it is financed in its first year by a $100,000 federal Area Redevelopment Administration grant.

The project was proposed by the Northern Michigan Development Council, a private organization, which secured the grant and named CMU as disbursing contractor and research agency.

A luncheon opened the dedication schedule for approximately 50 guests including civic, industrial and educational leaders who later attended a panel discussion outlining activities of the center.

Cheboygan Publisher Myrton M. Riggs, NMDC chairman, said the center would conduct its work of development assistance in roughly a 33-county area on a line from Oceana to Bay counties and northward to the Straits.

Coupon Day On Sept. 24 Planned By Esky Stores

A September Coupon Day promotion was planned by the Retail Division of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon meeting at Marco's Thursday. Chairman Kryn Bloom presided. Paul Gilbertson, chairman of the September event, outlined plans for promotion on Tuesday, Sept. 24, with Monday advertising. Deadline for advertising will be Wednesday, Sept. 18.

The attractive entry road to Al Ness' Pine Haven Subdivision as seen from the east is pictured. The entry road from the southbound lane of U.S.-2-41 and M-35 in the foreground serves a large loop in the background that gives access to all the lots in the plat.

MUSKEGON (AP) — Ending a season shortened by three weeks at the start and made poor by a cool August, the Milwaukee Clipper carried an estimated 85,000 persons between here and Milwaukee, Wis., this year.

Rocket Show For Kennedy Guests Excites Capital

WASHINGTON (AP)—Booming sonic bursts of nighttime fireworks at the White House entertained President Kennedy's guests but kept police busy explaining the aerial blasts to worried residents in the capital area.

After the first colorful rocket exploded with a crescendo about 11:20 Thursday night, police said they started getting a barrage of telephone calls.

When the 15-minute display in honor of the king and queen of Afghanistan had ended, police clocked close to 1,000 calls. The switchboards of Washington newspaper offices were flooded.

Most callers said they thought there had been an explosion or bomb burst. When they learned the noisemaking came from White House fireworks, a few disgruntled residents said it shouldn't have been done at that time of night.

Christine Keeler Jailed Overnight On New Charges

LONDON (AP)—Christine Keeler, sex symbol of Britain's scandal of the century, spent the night in jail and then made bond today on charges that she lied at the trial of a discarded Negro lover.

The 21-year-old playgirl looked pale but composed as she stood in court with three other defendants—two women friends and a West Indian man. Detectives arrested them Thursday night.

Miss Keeler heard the court set her bond at a relatively whopping 3,000 pounds ($8,400).

Christine was hit with four charges of perjury and conspiracy to obstruct justice in the case of Aloysius (Lucky) Gordon, her ex-lover.

A Jamaican jazz singer, he got a three-year sentence June 4 on a charge of beating her up outside a West End flat. She could get as much as seven years on each charge.

Gordon was released after seven weeks in prison by the court of criminal appeal after new evidence was turned up.

The formal charge said the four concealed from police facts about the alleged assault which might have put a different face on the affair.

Within 10 days, this dog will die.

He has distemper... a contagious disease that can strike a dog any time, anywhere. A severe case of distemper is almost always fatal, or leaves a dog partially paralyzed for the rest of his life.

The best defense—in fact, the only dependable defense—is immunization.

Distemper symptoms often come without warning. A severe respiratory and eye infection, accompanied by loss of appetite, high temperature, sluggishness, and possibly diarrhea. By the time you're aware something's wrong, it may be too late.

Distemper will kill more than a quarter million dogs this year, and will cripple nearly as many more. In fact, ninety percent of non-vaccinated dogs will catch it to some degree during their lifetimes.

Your dog can be immunized against distemper and against rabies and many other serious canine diseases. But only if you see your veterinarian before the disease strikes. Fair warning? Don't put it off. Pitman-Moore Company, Division of The Dow Chemical Company, Indianapolis 6, Indiana.

ATTENTION PROPERTY OWNERS!

We urge all property owners to Vote on Monday, Sept. 9.
VOTE NO on PROPOSITIONS 1 and 3 to set up a 2 mill ($2.00 per $1,000 assessed valuation) building sinking fund for 5 years.

This Association first suggested a sinking fund for school construction and believe it is the most economical way to pay for school buildings. But —we feel 2 MILLS IS TOO MUCH! We had in mind approximately 1 mill.

We believe money should NOT be borrowed against anticipated revenues of the sinking fund—the purpose of a sinking fund is to eliminate interest charges and we are now paying out too much money for interest on bonds.

Since there is now ample classroom space for students for several years, we feel that more careful planning of future buildings should be done.

More exact costs for more economical construction should be worked out and voters advised accordingly. By comparison with other districts we are now paying too much for school buildings.

We are not opposed to debt consolidation of Ford River and Cornell townships, and believe these debts should be paid as promised by the Area School Board.

Time For Change?

Dear Ann: Last year we moved to this exclusive Northern California suburb, were accepted immediately and invited to join The Club. This has been helpful to my husband's business.

One couple seems especially fond of us. Perhaps I'm imagining things but the woman (who is beautiful) always maneuvers around so she can sit next to my husband in the theater, the car, and at parties. He doesn't seem to mind one bit.

In the meantime, she tells me repeatedly that her husband (who is a great pincher) thinks I'm devastating. Last night she asked me if I thought HE was attractive. I said, "Of course." And tried to change the subject. She then suggested we four fly to Mexico for a few days and half-jokingly added, "Ray and I have been married 11 years and I think it's time for a change."

I've heard of couples switching mates but I never believed it actually happened. My husband says I'm cracked—that she meant no such thing. He thinks the trip would be fun. What should I do? —GAMES IN BURLINGAME

Dear Games: If this couple has a switchman's picnic in mind you'll get the pitch eventually, right there in good old Burlingame. So I don't think it matters much whether you go to Mexico.

Your husband may be one of those obtuse types who needs a building to fall on his head, so wait quietly until the timber flies—and then let him handle it.

Dear Ann Landers: My wife's aunt, a retired school teacher, made her home with us for 10 years. We loved her and never considered her a burden. She helped with the housework and the children until she became too ill two years ago. She paid no room or board (we wouldn't hear of it) but she did pay her own medical bills.

Last week Aunt Liz passed away. Her will was probated a few days ago. We never knew she had anything. It was a surprise to find she had a tidy sum in municipal bonds and Liberty Bonds from World War I which she inherited from her father. She left everything to us.

This morning the telephone began to ring. My wife's sister and brother feel that since Aunt Liz was off her rocker toward the end it is up to us to share the money with them even though the will does not read that way. We are not acquisitive people and there is no great fortune involved here, but we want to do the right thing. What is it?—SUDDENLY SOLVENT

Dear Suddenly: If Aunt Liz had wanted them to share in the inheritance she would have provided for them. I see no reason for you to feel guilty about enjoying the money—all of it.

LITTLE LIZ

Money doesn't have to go far, because wherever it stops it's welcome.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the staff who complained about the boss bringing his three kids to the office when his wife went out of town to visit her family made me mad.

Instead of grumbling and faulting the kids why didn't the girls in the office use a little imagination and keep those youngsters busy? They could have played a game called "Do Me A Favor." The kids would have loved sorting papers, cutting out things, looking for certain kinds of pictures in magazines. Even a box of crayons and something to color would have kept them busy for hours.

Too many adults are not imaginative enough to occupy children's inquisitive minds and keep their hands busy. Then they blame the kids for being restless and destructive and call them "savages."

If the crew in that office isn't bright enough to figure out how to keep three lively youngsters occupied I feel sorry for their boss.—RELIEVED

Dear Relieved: Thanks for an excellent letter and an ideal solution. (Where were you when I needed you?)

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teenagers if you write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

1st Arbitration In Peace Ordered

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Compulsory arbitration of the rail labor dispute adds still another challenge to a year of change in labor-management issues and solutions.

Sabbaticals for long-time employees, bonuses as compensation for automation, continuous negotiations to minimize strike threats, stress on fringe benefits rather than pay boosts, charges of racial bias by some unions and lack of equal job opportunities, and an increased emphasis on the public interest in labor disputes—all seem to be chiseling out a new look in labor-management relations.

Congress has ordered compulsory arbitration for the first time in a peace year. It has put off—at least for six months—the threat of a strike that would idle the nation's railroads.

The chief issue was over what management calls feather bedding—union-protected jobs that the companies say are no longer needed. This issue is debated in a number of other industries.

The issue is a variant of the chief concern in this year's labor talks. The unions primarily are worried over job security—the loss of jobs to machines or new work techniques, or to the changing consumer demand to different products or services. Management is equally concerned over cutting costs or getting into new lines that consumers now fancy.

The steel industry furnished clues to the new trend in three ways this year. First, Kaiser Steel is paying bonuses to workers, their share of savings made through automation. Second, the industry adopted a long-vacation plan that gives workers with seniority extended time-off every few years. And third, the industry licked the strike threat pressure on contract negotiations—this year at least—by setting up a continuously negotiating committee to tackle labor problems as they arise and hammer out a contract ahead of a fixed deadline. The electrical industry also has had study committees at work well ahead of contract terminations. Now the talks are coming out into the open. Longer vacations and more retirement pay are among the proposals.

Overtime and moonlighting also are coming to the front as issues because of this year's special conditions, chiefly the hard core of unemployment and the fear of many with jobs that they may lose them.

Many industries prefer to pay overtime when orders call for more output rather than hire new workers and become involved in all the fringe benefits that are an increasing part of the job scene. And many employees, especially those subject to periodic work week shortening look for other jobs after work, or moonlighting.

It's all part of today's labor picture. To this is now added the example of government embarking on compulsory arbitration in the public interest, and perhaps a trend toward a revamping of labor and management relations on many fronts.

Far Out Drama Planned By TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The old West, cops-and-robbers, husband and wife comedies, social drama—all this is tried and true television fare. During the coming season, there will be added a gay experiment in a comedy form rare in the nighttime channels.

It is a CBS series called "My Favorite Martian," and it's pure, simple fantasy with, perhaps, an occasional overtone of satire.

Television has had its share of broad comedy about dogs and horses who talk, but this time we'll be asked to believe in an English-speaking scientist from Mars, with retractable antennae in his skull, whose space ship is damaged and crash-lands in the course of making anthropological studies of man. This fey creature played by veteran comedian actor Ray Walston, becomes earthbound where he amazes his one friend by his ability to become invisible at will, to read minds, to put ideas in other people's minds, and generally perform magic tricks. One can easily see the broad opportunities such a flexible character presents for imaginative comedy writers and even for satirists.

The big problem, of course, will be achieving audience acceptance—that is, because children are accustomed to taking out-of-this-world creatures in stride.

"We know the kids will love it," said Walston, delicately fingering his left antenna. "We just hope the adults will appreciate it."

At any rate, it is a departure in format from the well-traveled ruts. And CBS has shrewdly tucked the half hour show in its Sunday evening schedule, immediately following "Lassie," a great family-type show, and before the ever-popular Ed Sullivan hour.

Highway Dept. To Start Radio Grid

Lawmakers Mum On Gov. Romney's Tax Reform Plan

LANSING (AP)—Top Republican lawmakers are at work on a timetable for the special session after getting the word from Gov. George Romney on what he will propose in the way of tax reform.

Sen. Stanley Thayer, R-Ann Arbor, the Senate majority leader, and House Speaker Allison Green, R-Kingston, emerged from a 1½-hour meeting with Romney Wednesday, tight-lipped about details of the program.

They told newsmen, however, that they were "impressed" and expect the special session, which also will deal with implementing the new Constitution, to be wrapped up by Nov. 15.

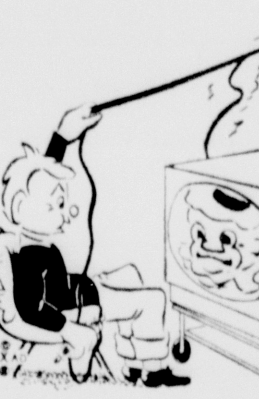

Neither lawmaker would discuss what Romney told them about the program. They particularly fenced off questions about a state income tax that could be a part of the package.

Green said that except for some "tinkering with details," the Romney plan apparently is complete.

Church School Plans Listed By Immanuel

Children enrolling at Escanaba's Immanuel Lutheran's Church School this Sunday are asked to report first to the regular worship service rather than going directly to the class areas. After attendance awards have been presented students will be directed to their classes, where registrations will take place. Records show that perfect attendance at Immanuel Lutheran's Sunday School was double that of the previous year, with twice as many pupils receiving perfect attendance pins.

Immanuel Lutheran offers two Sunday Schools each Sunday with classes offered for every department at both 9:45 and 11. Family worship is at the same hours as is child care at the church nursery.

The men's Bible Study group of Immanuel will begin its bi-weekly meetings this Saturday evening at 7:30. This vigorous men's group is organized and the studies carried on by the laymen themselves, with the pastor appearing only briefly at the close of the meeting to assist with any knotty questions.

Any resident of Escanaba and the surrounding areas who does not have a regular church home is invited to participate in the above activities and services and any of the numerous others provided by Immanuel for its members and friends.

St. Patrick Guild First Meeting Monday Evening

St. Patrick's Guild will hold its first meeting of the new season on Monday, Sept. 9, beginning at 8 p.m., in the parish hall. All women of the parish are invited to attend.

New officers of the Guild who will assume their duties are: Mrs. Arthur Walker, president; Mrs. Arthur Christensen, 1st vice president; Mrs. Leslie Rose, secretary; Mrs. George Chaudoin, treasurer.

Mystical Rose Circle will be in charge of the social for the evening, which will begin at 8:30 and which is open to members and their guests. Cards will be played, with players selecting their favorite game, and a high score will be given at each table. Lunch will be served. Mrs. Carl Davis and Mrs. William Davis are co-chairmen of hostesses.

Isabella Circle Meeting Monday

Daughters of Isabella, Trinity Circle 362, will meet Monday at 8 p.m., at Teamster's Hall. The business session will be followed by a social hour. Mrs. Anna Taylor is chairman of the evening, assisted by Mesdames Math Lewis, Ben Peltin, Frank Beaudry, Mary Papineau, William Farrell, Agnes Grenier, Chester Calouette, Arthur Bryson, Harry Cooper, Clinton Priester, Elizabeth Maissonneuve and Mildred Le Due.

Women's Activities

With Our Women

A vibrant personality is the happy possession of the former Clara Karas Somers, now Mrs. George J. Embs, string instrumental teacher in the Escanaba Area Public School System.

Her love of music comes to her as an inheritance from her parents, the late Frank Karas, for whom Karas Memorial Band Shell in Ludington Park is named, and the late Helen Karas, whose life was devoted to the interests of her husband and children.

Her success as a teacher and her whole-hearted participation in varied activities in the community are carrying on the tradition of a beloved couple, "Pa and Ma Karas."

Clara Embs was born in Menominee Aug. 15, 1916. She attended Escanaba Community College one year, and Northern Michigan College of Education three years, graduating with a B.S. degree in 1939, with a major in physical education and minors in music and biology. She also attended graduate summer school at the University of Southern California and at the University of Michigan at Interlochen.

Her school activities included high school and college glee clubs and orchestra, sports and serving as secretary-treasurer of the Student Girls' League.

After leaving school she taught physical education in Baraga and Wakefield and string music in Escanaba and in Mason. During years she worked for firms in Lower Michigan and later went to Florida where she was employed in the business office of Stetson University at Deland and as house mother of Lambda Chi fraternity, before she returned to Escanaba.

She is a member of the American String Teachers Association, Michigan Education Association, Delta County Historical Society, Chapter Z of the P. E. O. Sisterhood, Amvet Post 123 Auxiliary, Escanaba String Ensemble and Escanaba Country Club. She also is a member of First Presbyterian Church.

Her hobbies are listening to favorite music, both classical and popular, playing with the Escanaba String Ensemble, golf, cross country skiing, walking in the woods and fishing and boating. She formerly devoted much time to tennis and was women's single champion two years.

Besides playing in the Northern Michigan College orchestra, she has played with Cloverland Symphony, Gogebic Symphony, Lansing Civic Symphony and Stetson Symphony.

"I know now," she comments, "that Escanaba and the Upper Peninsula are in my blood. After two years down south trying to become 'Floridized' the need to come home to my beautiful fresh vital north country overcome me and I headed home — for good. My husband and I are a happy pair as we are in love — with the Escanaba area, its people and the Upper Peninsula."

MANISTIQUE Tamburitzans Are Manistique Hit

Duquesne University's Tamburitzans delighted an audience of 500 persons in Manistique High School auditorium Wednesday night with a fast-moving program of folk songs and dances. Bright-colored, authentic costumes of the Slavic countries enhanced beauty of the program.

The students, all earning their way through college with abilities in music and dance, are in the Tamburitzan training camp at Lake Nebagamon near Superior, Wis., for three weeks. They came in their own custom-built bus for the program sponsored by Manistique Council 2026, Knights of Columbus.

The event was a fund-raising project of the K-C's restoration project at Bishop Baraga's first mission church on Indian Lake. Designated by a Michigan Historical Commission marker, the site has a shrine recently erected to the Blessed Virgin.

Plans call for restoration of the mission church and care of the nearby Indian cemetery. The Knights recently acquired the property from private owners.

In several numbers, the entire cast played musical instruments, the eight schools which comprise Duquesne University. Only a small number of students major in music. Replacements for the troop, which has a farm system for early training, are obtained in yearly auditions which attract 300. Seven or eight are picked yearly. To be eligible a student must have qualifying academic grades.

The troop has played three world tours, including one in 1962. Its director is Walter W. Kolar, who began as a student with the Tamburitzans in 1933. He has been leader for 12 years. His wife, the former Jennie Petermac, is also a former Tamburitzan. They have one son, David Rene, who played violin in the presentation Wednesday.

Kolar is one of the foremost Tamburitzan authorities in the United States. The Tamburitzan School of Music was established by him at Duquesne in 1954 and he compiled the first tamburitzan instruction book in the English language. Kolar also first established the Pittsburgh Tamburitzan Orchestra, first of its kind in the world.

Tourist Park Pace Quickens

Work on the utility building at Gladstone's Wilderness Park swung into high gear last night as the work crews began installing the roof.

Development of the park area, located in the east end of the city, has been undertaken as a community project. Members of the Chamber of Commerce are constructing the utility building, which was donated by Northern Cedarcraft Products Inc., of Gladstone, and city crews will build the roads, pads and install lighting.

Bob Wellman, president of the Gladstone Chamber of Commerce, said that the volunteer help situation has been excellent up to the present time, but there is always room for more. "These people, many of them not connected either with our organization or the city, work every evening and on Saturday afternoons and their help is most appreciated," said Wellman.

The chamber president said once the roof is completed the crews will begin the task of completing the interior work. "Here we might run into a little trouble due to the lack of semi-skilled carpenters. The work is a little more difficult and we could certainly use the help of anyone with carpenter experience," said Wellman.

Most of the supplies and equipment for the utility building have been donated, however, there is still a need for wash basins, toilets, plumbing supplies and tile fields.

When completed the new camping site will be equipped with 150 sites. While work on the sites will begin this year it will not be completed probably until early next spring.

City Commission To Face Light Agenda On Monday

The Gladstone City Commission will face a light agenda when it meets on Monday evening at City Hall.

Only two items appear on the agenda thus far. They are a zoning appeal by Adeline LaCrosse and appointment of an election board for the Sept. 30 election.

The Sept. 30 election has been called to seek a millage vote of 2 mills for one year to raise the county's share of the $350,000 jail project. The county has been notified that half the cost has been approved for a federal grant of $177,000.

John Radcliffe, 170 pound senior halfback at Munising, took the early lead in the Upper Peninsula football scoring race last weekend. Radcliffe, who suffered a broken leg in his third game of the season against Manistique last fall, scored three touchdowns as Coach Wayne Sickler's Mustangs defeated Gwinn 30-13. He cashed in on a 65 yard punt return and on end sweeps covering 38 and 20 yards. He carried eight times from scrimmage and gained 116 yards. Munising hosts Manistique Saturday.

Kingsford will resume football relations with Menominee this year as the teams meet at Kingsford Sept. 20 for the first time since 1953 when the Maroons won 57-7. The schools have played 17 games in the past with Menominee winning all of them. In 1929 the Maroons blasted the Flyers 150-0.

Lack of depth will hurt a couple of Menominee Range Conference teams this fall. Iron Mountain had only 23 players in uniform for the game at Ishpeming and Coach Frank Gusick used 14 of them. At Gladstone Saturday, Coach Allan Ronberg used only 13 players. Both the Vikings and Mountaineers lost.

A beagle owned by John Mackie of Gladstone placed first among 23 entries in the 13 inch female division of the Lake Superior Beagle Club trial at Chassell.

New golf champion of the St. Ignace club is Jim Lamoreaux who has officiated quite a few Escanaba High School basketball games in recent years. He beat Jim Brown in a 26-hole match for the title.

The Bosanich-Davis Michigan middleweight championship fight here drew boxing figures from throughout the region. Among the names well known to Escanaba fans at the bout were Savor Canoe of Green Bay, former U.P. light heavyweight Golden Gloves champion Vern Coutant of Soo, Andy Hytinen of Milwaukee, Bobby Hansen of Menominee, Jack Phillips, Wayne Tuffnell, Francis Selling and Ed Toya of Manistique, Miles Betts of Marquette. Newspapers, radio and television stations from Michigan and Wisconsin cities were represented.

Chided recently by Coach Duffy Daugherty for not doing too well in a mile run during conditioning drills at Michigan State, Manistique's 5-7, 175 pound Ron Rubick quipped: "Coach, you got to remember that I take twice as many steps as anyone else." Rubick is testing a surgery-repaired knee at right half.

Trenary defeated the Old Timers 14-3 in their annual clash and Mel Karkkainen of Escanaba became the fifth player in history to hit a ball over the distant left field fence. He pitched four innings for the winners. The Trenary team is staging a benefit dance Saturday night at Herb's.

Latest Senator Setback Painful For Gil Hodges

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The 100,000th major league baseball game in history will be played in Washington tonight. It is not true that the Senators have lost most of them. It just seems that way to Gil Hodges.

Actually, the Senators have lost only 5,155. But, for the rookie manager of the 10th-place team, the last one must be among the most painful.

It was a 3-2, 12-inning loss to New York's Yankees Thursday in which Hodges' pitchers held the Yanks to three hits for 11 innings, his infield kicked in the tying run and he lost, temporarily at least, the services of his top hitter, Chuck Hinton.

Hinton was struck on the left side of the head, just below the protective helmet, by a Ralph Terry pitch. He retained consciousness, but was carried from the field on a stretcher and hospitalized overnight. He was listed in satisfactory condition.

Terry went all the way, winning his 16th against 13 losses on a 12th-inning double by Clete Boyer and a run-producing single by Hector Lopez.

Chicago beat Kansas City 4-1 and took over second place, 13 games back of the Yanks, when Los Angeles beat Minnesota 8-5 in a night game. Detroit beat Boston 5-2 in the only other American League game scheduled.

In the National League, the first-place Los Angeles Dodgers shut out the Chicago Cubs 4-0. St. Louis walloped the New York Mets 9-0. Houston defeated San Francisco 5-2 in 10 innings and Milwaukee belted Pittsburgh 8-0. Philadelphia and Cincinnati were not scheduled.

The 100,000th game gimmick was discovered by an exhausting check of files by officials at the Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y., and was announced just a couple of days ago by Commissioner Ford Frick.

The Senators are going to mark the milestone with appropriate pre-game ceremonies, chiefly featuring a comedian and some of his buddies. They'll have to be funny to get a chuckle from the usually pleasant Hodges, who has had his troubles.

He took over the 10th place team 11 games back of the Yankees. They're still in 10th, now 4 1/2 games back. The Thursday loss must have been one of the most frustrating.

Steve Ridzik and Ed Roebuck had held the champions to just three hits through nine innings and Ron Kline held them hitless for two more before Boyer doubled in the 12th. Lopez then delivered a drive that bounced into the lower right-field stands. It would have gone as a ground rule double, but Lopez stopped at first.

Babe Ruth's .393 batting average in 1923 still stands as a New York Yankee club record.

Tigers Near .500 Mark

Three Hits Turn Trick

NEW YORK (AP)—The Detroit Tigers needed only three hits to beat Boston Thursday, and now only the New York Yankees stand between them and the formal label "winners."

The Tigers officially have been "losers" since April 24—they have lost more games than they've won. But a victory over New York tonight would give them a season record of 70-70. A sweep of the three-game series with the Yanks would put them over the .500 mark they drifted away from April 25, when a loss made their record 7-8.

Fifth-place Detroit dumped seventh-place Boston 5-2 Thursday, taking advantage of strong pitching by starter Bob Anderson, usually a bull pen staffer. Anderson allowed just three hits in the first eight innings.

The Tigers, meanwhile, squandered two of their three hits in the first inning and brought in four runs.

Billy Bruton, Dick McAuliffe and Al Kaline walked. Rocky Colavito singled in two runs. Cash singled in another and Colavito scored during a double play.

Colavito's single chased Boston starter Earl Wilson. Wilson's replacement, Wilbur Wood, after giving up Cash's single, mowed down 14 Tigers in a row before McAuliffe made it 5-0 with a solo homer in the sixth.

Anderson held Boston hitless until Frank Malzone's single in the eighth.

Tiger rookie George Smith then made a spectacular diving stop of Russ Nixon's smash near first and threw him out. Pinchhitter Dick Williams moved Clinton to third with another single but Anderson killed the threat by throwing out Gary Geiger.

Felix Mantilla's single and Carl Yastrzemski's double drove Anderson out in the ninth. Reliever Fred Gladding then wild-pitched across one run and gave up a run-producing single to Malzone before slamming the door on Boston.

Yastrzemski's one hit in two at-bats put him back in the American League batting lead with a .318 average. Kaline went 6-for-3 and fell to .316.

Bank again (14-11) has the task of beating the Yankees tonight. New York will use the league's first 20-game winner this season, Whitey Ford (20-7).

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Seven surprised Americans held a paper-thin lead going into today's final round of the Americas' Cup Golf matches with a group of crafty Canadians threatening to capture the trophy for the first time ever.

"We sure didn't help ourselves this afternoon," said U.S. captain Billy Joe Patton after the heavily favored U.S. team had managed only a 1 1/2-point lead in Thursday's opening round.

The Canadians, meanwhile, were elated with their performance and primed to end U.S. domination of the biennial event between teams from the United States, Canada and Mexico.

"We're still in there," beamed branny Doug Silverberg, who swept past his American and Mexican opponents in singles play and who kept the Canadians within striking distance.

The 30-year-old Calgary insurance executive scored two points in the singles after teaming with Keith Alexander to pick up two points in the three-ball tests.

Silverberg's surge and unexpected singles swiped by Bert Tiechurst and Bill Pidalski took up the slack caused by the collapse of Gary Cowan, considered Canada's finest.

Veteran Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City, Dick Sikes of Fayetteville, Ark., and Labron Hayette Jr. of Enid, Oklahoma, kept the United States in front. The Yanks, who have never lost in six previous challenges, had 12 1/2 points to 11 for Canada and 3 1/2 for Mexico at the halfway mark.

Harris, defending national amateur champion, whipped Luis Brauer of Mexico and tied Nick Weslock of Canada for 1 1/2 points, the same total he and Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N.C., scored in three-ball play.

Sikes whipped Keith Alexander of Canada 5 and 4 and Mauricio Urdaneta of Mexico 5 and 3 with three straight birdies on his final holes to add two more points to the United States' total.

The Bagbys are the only father and son combination to pitch in the world series. Jim Sr. hurled for the Cleveland Indians in 1920 and Jim Jr. toed the mound for the Boston Red Sox in 1946.

Green, Salsinger and Ward, often traveling companions to America's biggest sports events, were among the nation's best known chroniclers of athletics of the last half century.

Green, son of a Virginia newspaper editor and publisher and who spent a lifetime in the newspaper business, was a baseball and boxing expert in particular.

A gifted writer, he was also immensely popular as a personality. Kindness and an unflinching courtesy were characteristics of Sam.

Green's survivors include a son, Edgar Carlton (Doc) Greene, sports columnist of The Detroit News, and his widow, Kittle, his inseparable companion.

Funeral services will be held here Saturday at 3 p.m.

DETROIT (AP) — Anybody who knew Sam Greene was grateful for the privilege.

The great legion of sportswriter Sam's friends now mourn him.

Green, sports editor of The Detroit News, died Thursday. He was 68. He died at his home after a long illness.

Up to the very last moment Greene, a dedicated man, was close to his work. He was in his bedroom preparing to listen to the radio broadcast of his Detroit Tigers' game with the Boston Red Sox at Boston when the end came.

Gentleman Sam — colleagues said no man had more affection from more friends — had been gravely ill for more than a year, but he stayed at his typewriter until a few weeks ago covering the Tigers.

Greene underwent a lung operation a year ago. Since then, his condition worsened. On his last day he was forced to use a cane to get about.

The death of Greene, a Detroit News staff member since 1924,

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Arnold Palmer's aching shoulder threatened today to take the edge off his showdown meeting with burly Jack Nicklaus, placid Julius Boros and solemn Bob Charles in the $75,000 World Series of Golf this weekend.

"It's worse than ever," an obviously worried Palmer said Thursday after wincing with pain after his first practice round over the 7,165-yard Firestone Country Club course, where the 36-hole medal exhibition play begins Saturday.

"I'm not even thinking of withdrawing or anything like that," he added, "but I won't play again until Saturday unless it gets a lot better. You can just put your hand on it and feel it crack."

That Palmer is suffering from a bursitis of the right shoulder was revealed Thursday as he began his first warmup for the television spectacular that rewards the winner with $50,000.

Golf's No. 1 money winner disclosed the pain first appeared while he was in California last week filming a sports show, kicked up again during an exhibition at Waukegan, Ill., last weekend and worsened here.

Although X-rays showed no serious calcium deposits, Palmer said a doctor told him there are ragged traces on the bones of his shoulder and that the inflammation is caused by the friction of them rubbing together when he turns on the power in his mighty swing.

The rest of the cast for the weekend test, in which the last six holes will be televised nationally by NBC each day, was in good health if not bristling with optimism.

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Seven surprised Americans held a paper-thin lead going into today's final round of the Americas' Cup Golf matches with a group of crafty Canadians threatening to capture the trophy for the first time ever.

"We sure didn't help ourselves this afternoon," said U.S. captain Billy Joe Patton after the heavily favored U.S. team had managed only a 1 1/2-point lead in Thursday's opening round.

The Canadians, meanwhile, were elated with their performance and primed to end U.S. domination of the biennial event between teams from the United States, Canada and Mexico.

"We're still in there," beamed branny Doug Silverberg, who swept past his American and Mexican opponents in singles play and who kept the Canadians within striking distance.

The 30-year-old Calgary insurance executive scored two points in the singles after teaming with Keith Alexander to pick up two points in the three-ball tests.

Silverberg's surge and unexpected singles swiped by Bert Tiechurst and Bill Pidalski took up the slack caused by the collapse of Gary Cowan, considered Canada's finest.

Veteran Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City, Dick Sikes of Fayetteville, Ark., and Labron Hayette Jr. of Enid, Oklahoma, kept the United States in front. The Yanks, who have never lost in six previous challenges, had 12 1/2 points to 11 for Canada and 3 1/2 for Mexico at the halfway mark.

Harris, defending national amateur champion, whipped Luis Brauer of Mexico and tied Nick Weslock of Canada for 1 1/2 points, the same total he and Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N.C., scored in three-ball play.

Sikes whipped Keith Alexander of Canada 5 and 4 and Mauricio Urdaneta of Mexico 5 and 3 with three straight birdies on his final holes to add two more points to the United States' total.

Green, Salsinger and Ward, often traveling companions to America's biggest sports events, were among the nation's best known chroniclers of athletics of the last half century.

Green, son of a Virginia newspaper editor and publisher and who spent a lifetime in the newspaper business, was a baseball and boxing expert in particular.

A gifted writer, he was also immensely popular as a personality. Kindness and an unflinching courtesy were characteristics of Sam.

Green's survivors include a son, Edgar Carlton (Doc) Greene, sports columnist of The Detroit News, and his widow, Kittle, his inseparable companion.

Funeral services will be held here Saturday at 3 p.m.

DETROIT (AP) — Anybody who knew Sam Greene was grateful for the privilege.

The great legion of sportswriter Sam's friends now mourn him.

Green, sports editor of The Detroit News, died Thursday. He was 68. He died at his home after a long illness.

Up to the very last moment Greene, a dedicated man, was close to his work. He was in his bedroom preparing to listen to the radio broadcast of his Detroit Tigers' game with the Boston Red Sox at Boston when the end came.

Gentleman Sam — colleagues said no man had more affection from more friends — had been gravely ill for more than a year, but he stayed at his typewriter until a few weeks ago covering the Tigers.

Greene underwent a lung operation a year ago. Since then, his condition worsened. On his last day he was forced to use a cane to get about.

The death of Greene, a Detroit News staff member since 1924,

Willie May Spell Big Trouble For Leading Dodgers

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
Weary Willie Mays will be back tonight.

And that just might spell trouble for the Los Angeles Dodgers, tenaciously holding their grip on the National League lead despite a serious surge by streaking St. Louis.

The Dodgers, who have been running out front for two months and three days, maintained their five-game edge over the Cardinals as Pete Richert and Larry Sherry collaborated on a five-hit, 4-0 shut-out of the Chicago Cubs Thursday night.

The Cardinals, meanwhile kept the pressure on, extending their longest winning streak of the season to eight games with a 9-0 wallop of the New York Mets behind the six-hit pitching of Curt Simmons and the 5-for-5 batting performance of Curt Flood.

Both the Dodgers and Cardinals have 22 games remaining, including a vital three-game series at St. Louis later this month. But for the moment, the Cardinals are hoping Mays is fit and ready to go against the Dodgers tonight.

The San Francisco Giants $100,000-a-year center fielder collapsed from exhaustion on Labor Day in the first game of a doubleheader with the Cubs. He's been resting since then for tonight's start of a three-game series with Los Angeles at San Francisco.

The Cardinals are scheduled to play a two-night doubleheader with Pittsburgh's Pirates, losers of five in a row.

While the Dodgers and Cardinals were winning Thursday, Houston defeated the third-place Giants 5-2 in 10 innings with Bob Aspromonte's three-run homer the big blow. Milwaukee rookie Bob Sadowski shut out the Pirates 8-0 on eight hits in the only other game scheduled.

The American League-leading New York Yankees edged Washington 3-2 in 12 innings, the Chicago White Sox defeated Kansas City 4-1, the Los Angeles Angels belted Minnesota 8-5 and Detroit downed Boston 5-2 in the only games scheduled.

Richert, 23, a left-hander, went 7 1/3 innings before he ran into a jam. Sherry took over, held the Cubs hitless the rest of the way and protected Richert's third victory against one loss. Richert actually drove in the only run the Dodgers needed with a single in the second off Bob Buhl, 9-13.

Jim Gilliam hit an inside the park homer for the Dodgers.

Flood collected a triple and four singles in support of Simmons, who brought his record to 13-7 by blanking the Mets. Rookie Grover Powell was the loser.

Books Offered On Tax Reform

Representatives of agencies interested in fiscal reform of the state government were on hand Thursday afternoon for a showing of literature on the subject offered by the Upper Peninsula Branch of the State Library for public reading. The assembly was at Carnegie Library, where a part of the collection was exhibited.

Albert Halcli, director of the Branch, said the Escanaba Public Library is one of 14 public libraries in Michigan which have been sent the collection by the State Library as part of a statewide effort to spur citizen interest in fiscal reform.

To assist readers in selections, said Carnegie Public Library Director Harry Courtwright, an 8-page bibliography listing authoritative material on the subject, for and against, is available.

Anyone who lives in the Upper Peninsula may obtain the bibliography or borrow the books from the State Library Branch by asking at their local public library. If they live in an area presently unserved by public libraries, they may request the books by mailing a postcard to the Michigan State Library, U.P. Branch, 413 Ludington St., Escanaba.

The fiscal reform collection includes documents like:

Taxation in Michigan: An Appraisal, by Harvey E. Brazer; Mapping Michigan Finances, by Citizens Research Council of Michigan; States Face Sixties, by Charles F. Conlen; The Detroit Income Tax — An Analysis, by Alfred L. Edwards; Financing Government, by Harold M. Groves; Taxation and Finance, by Frank M. Landers; The Michigan Economy to 1970, by Paul W. McCracken; Michigan Tax Study Staff Papers, by Michigan Legislature, House, Special Committee on Taxation, and Research Staff; State Income Tax Administration, by Clara Penniman and Walter E. Heller; A Suggested Program for Financing Area Development in Michigan, by Harold T. Smith; Local Income Taxes as a Source of Revenue for Michigan Communities, by Milton C. Taylor; and Michigan's Taxes on Business, 1956, by Dwight B. Yntema.

Examining a collection of fiscal reform literature offered by the State Library for public reading at the Carnegie Public Library on Thursday are, from left: Mrs. John Tonberg and Mrs. Victor Powers of the Escanaba League of Women Voters; Albert Halcli, director of the U.P. Branch of the State Library; Charles Folio, Delta delegate to the Constitutional Convention; Walter Bright, Escanaba Area school superintendent; and Rep. Einar Erlandsen, (D-Delta). Yacht Freed By CD Boat

The Delta County Civil Defense rescue boat answered a "May Day" call shortly after 8 a. m. today from a 36-foot Christ-Craft yacht owned by John Jansma, 49, of Chicago, that had run aground off Squaw Point in Little Bay de Noc.

The request for assistance was given to the U. S. Coast Guard Station at Escanaba, but its boat was not large enough to pull the yacht free and they turned the call over to the local CD unit.

The rescue boat, manned by Deputy Jack Hemes of the sheriff's department and a coast guardsman went to the scene and found the Chicago yacht, the "John G." hard aground just off Squaw Point.

Jansma told the officers that they had left Gladstone harbor this morning enroute to Chicago. He said that he had just turned on the boat's depth finder because of the hazy weather when the boat went aground.

Deputy Hemes said the boat had run aground in about two feet of water. Lines were rigged to the stern of the yacht and it was pulled out into the deep water. It was freed about 9 a. m.

From Squaw Point the boat came to Escanaba where it was inspected for damage. After it was found to be undamaged the boat left for Chicago. On the yacht with Mr. Jansma were his wife, Margaret, 49, and his 13-year-old daughter, Jerri.

Mostly Fair And Cool Is Forecast

The coming weekend in the Escanaba area will have the possibility of showers on Saturday while Sunday's weather will be mostly fair and cool, it is reported by the U. S. Weather Bureau.

Winds tonight will be northerly and will diminish on Saturday.

The outlook for the five days beginning today is for temperatures near seasonal normals in Northern Michigan. After a cool weekend the weather will warm up beginning Monday, turning cooler again on Wednesday.

Huntsville, Ala. Troopers Braved By Parents, Kids

order closing until Monday the four schools scheduled for integration.

Wallace issued his order after the school board, backed by City Council, rejected his appeal for a second postponement. There had been one Monday. The council, in special session, wired Wallace Thursday night to keep hands off.

State troopers turned the children away while city police directed heavy traffic in the area of the four schools slated for desegregation. There were no clashes.

One mother came to the gate at Rison Junior High with her daughter and three other girls. A trooper raised his hand to stop the group.

"I know the school is closed," the mother said, "but I just came to show you that we want them open."

If the people at Birmingham had gone with their children to the schools to show that they wanted the schools open, there would have been a lot less trouble.

People Plead

"I am a native of Huntsville. I am not an integrationist. Let me believe that we and the people of the South have to accept it. I have brought my children up without prejudice."

The scene at Rison was repeated at three grammar schools — Fifth Avenue, Terry Heights and East Clinton. Each of the four schools has been directed by federal courts to admit one Negro this term.

An agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation walked up and down the streets, taking pictures of parents trying to get their broods into classrooms.

At Mobile, where another heavy force of state troopers had been deployed Thursday, there was a minor demonstration by white pupils. But two Negroes ordered admitted to Murphy High School did not arrive.

"We Hate Negroes"

A small group of white pupils chanted: "We hate Negroes." It lasted only a few seconds and the group filed into the building.

Fifteen state highway patrol cars were drawn up in a line across the front of Rison Junior High.

Representatives of Wallace telephoned School Supt. Raymond Christian at 5:30 a. m. and said they wanted the schools closed. Christian told the state officials of the school board's resolution Thursday to go ahead with classes today and said he is tending on that decision.

Wallace took similar action four days ago to halt the scheduled opening of a school in Tuskegee, also under a federal court order to integrate.

Alabama provided the only spreading school desegregation crisis in the nation. Elsewhere there were sit-ins, boycotts and picketing at some schools, North and South, but not major violence.

Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey appealed for an end to school demonstrations at Englewood following the arrest of six women and continuation of a classroom sit-in by Negro pupils at three predominantly white schools.

Jersey Plan

Speaking at Trenton, the governor told civil rights leaders the full Englewood desegregation plan would be implemented as soon as possible. The leaders were protesting delay of the plan.

The arrests were the first in the controversy over Englewood's schools since February 1962 when Negroes staged a sit-in at City Hall.

Picketing and sit-ins also occurred at Plainfield, N.J., protesting a proposal to end racial imbalance in the public schools.

Negro leaders protesting what they called de facto segregation in the schools staged demonstrations at Malverne, N.Y., Boston and Chicago.

The small Mississippi River town of Plaquemine, La., was the scene of a lunchroom boycott and a singing demonstration by the 500 pupils at a Negro high school.

The pupils said they were protesting the dismissal of a lunchroom worker who was one of several hundred Negroes arrested during recent racial demonstrations.

Expand Desegregation

Public schools at New Orleans began the fourth year of expanding desegregation with 26 previously white schools accepting Negroes. This was an increase of six over last year.

Only one minor incident was reported, a bomb threat at one of the schools that turned out to be a false alarm.

About 250 chanting Negro youths marched on City Hall at Hammond, La., a small southeast Louisiana town. They carried signs saying they wanted freedom.

In New York, four civil rights demonstrators chained themselves to construction cranes high above the ground. Police climbed up and attached safety belts to the four, then they were lowered to earth and arrested on trespassing charges.
